SUIT SUBJECT OF COMMENT

COMMUNICATION TO COUNCIL

Caustic Document Read in Which Executive Accuses Injunction Complainants

At the council meeting last evening Mayor Anderson paid his respects to the citizens who enjoined the building of the auditorium in a communication to the council. In the communication there were a number of allegations reflecting upon the city officials, notably one charging that as planned the building would have been unsafe. The mayor asserts in the most positive language that safety in both substantiality of construction and amplitude of site was made the paramount condition in the building plans. To the objection that the building would not have been a thing of beauty, lack of funds is interposed. With thinly veiled contempt the executive intimates that the objections alleged in the complaint were not the real inspiration of the injunction, and that the objectors, or one of them, had ulterior motives. The communication is entertainingly caustic, full of spicy innuendo punctuated with more direct accusations. It follows:

La Crosse, Jan. 9, 1908.
"To the Common Council of the City of La Crosse.

"Gentlemen:
"It becomes my duty to inform you officially that one week ago today the city authorities were enjoined from entering into a contract for the construction of an auditorium, on the site of and using the materials of the abandoned Second ward school-house, pursuant to your resolution of Dec. 13.

"The order restraining the city from entering into this contract was issued, upon complaint of Mr. Frank P. Hixon and Mr. W. W. Cargill, in the circuit court for La Crosse county, on the second day of Jan., 1908.

"I am informed that these two citizens acted strictly within their legal rights in complaining that the city had no legal authority to construct this building and securing an injunction, the same as would have been the case if they had decided to enjoin the city from the expenditure of many thousands of dollars upon the highway and bridges in Minnesota, the appropriation of $15,000 to assist the state in purchasing a school site, and various similar acts for the public good, which are quite unanimously approved. It can be easily understood that in any of these cases it would not have required a broad minded man or a wealthy man to ignore the apparent wishes of the people, go into circuit court and plead that 'the taxes of these plaintiffs and all other taxpayers of the city of La Crosse will thereby be greatly increased.'

"However, had the complaint in question been confined to the statement that the city had no legal authority, the matter would have been left to the city attorney, without comment, although such action on part of the two gentlemen would have occasioned some surprise, due to the fact that as directors of the city railway they were ready at one time to encourage the authorities in a similar illegal proceeding. I refer to the readiness of one to authorize a contribution of $2,500, and the other a lesser amount, for the construction of a building for the same purpose, though much cheaper, on the fair grounds.

Need Is Discussed.

"During the time the subject of an armory and auditorium was under consideration, last summer, there seemed to be a general feeling that a large hall was needed in this city, aside from its use for the Saengerfest which undoubtedly influenced the vote for the issue of bonds last spring. At the same time there were many who doubted the wisdom of bonding the city for a building which would be under control of the state. A knowledge of these facts led to the suggestion of the construction of a large hall or auditorium by the city, utilizing the site and material of the Second ward school building, with squad rooms for the military companies as an incidental rather than principal feature.

"The tax rate had been agreed upon, and it was thought by the controller that sufficient funds might be set aside for the purpose of erecting the building so that it could be made use of, even if not fully completed this year. The committee was appointed, but within two weeks thereafter it was announced that the city would be called upon by the county for $20,000 more in taxes than was expected, or was paid last year.

Want of Funds Felt.

"The changed conditions from a financial standpoint, may seem a small matter to men of great wealth, either inherited or acquired, but the situation confronting the authorities,

DOHERTY AND BURNS OPTIMISTIC AFTER CONVENTION

'DEMOCRATIC HOME-COMING'

Neither Will Discuss Ryan-Manson Fight for National Committee

"Somebody said in Milwaukee that the convention was a 'homecoming' of the democratic party. That tells my impressions better than anything I can say, and you know what it means. If we all get home."

In the foregoing words John C. Burns tersely told an interviewer his ideas about things political. Fresh from the convention, the delegate-elect to the Denver convention was full of optimism, and in his brief statement injected his own enthusiasm and an implied prophecy of the consummation of the hopes of William Jennings Bryan, of Lincoln, Neb., U. S. A.

Regarding the Manson-Ryan factional fight, Mr. Burns declined to talk. "We are getting together," he said. "You know there is a difference between 'getting together' and 'coming together.' We are in the midst of peace, and we want to disprove that old adage to the effect that 'in the midst of peace we are in war.' I never did believe in 'fighting for conciliation.' Forget it."

That is as near as anyone could get to the answer of how Mr. Burns is going to vote on national committee, for which "Tim" Ryan and "Herb" Manson are both candidates. Indeed, so elusive is he becoming when the political editor looms up among the bananas, that there need be no surprise if he eventually emulates the example of Mayor Anderson by cultivating a flower garden.

Doherty Optimistic.

County Chairman John P. Doherty, who acted as temporary chairman of the convention, and whose address was one of the features of the gathering, believes that in point of numbers and enthusiasm it was the greatest convention ever held in Wisconsin. The number and interest of the young men impressed him favorably. "Not that the old men were crowded out or are deprived of the respect due them," he added. Mr. Doherty says the composition of the

DEAL NOT CLOSED

Rockford has not yet closed the deal for the purchase of Eau Claire's franchise and there is said to be a bare possibility that La Crosse getting the Eau Claire team may hinder the immediate consummation of the deal.

POLYGAMY O. K., BUT IS NOT PRACTICED

"Polygamy" and "treason" were discussed by Elder Edmunds at the Mormon meeting last night. The speaker admitted that the former was still the faith, by "inspiration," but said its practice meant expulsion from the Mormon church, as a violation of the civil law. He said that in the revelations, the newest written word of the creed, it was shown that Mormonism gives full allegiance to the civil government.

There was a larger attendance of Christians last night, some twenty protestant pastors being present. It was announced that a meeting of the Mormon conference will be held in La Crosse June 14 and 15, at which Mission President German E. Ellsworth, of Chicago, will be present.

'LITTLE SWEETHEART' FOR SNELL'S MONEY

CLINTON, Ill., Feb. 15.—Addressing aged millionaire Snell as "my dearest and best friend," Edna Hamilton, daughter of the fleeing minister whose mother traded her to the old man's desires, for money and "togs," wrote, "I will try and make you happy and be your little sweetheart." That was in her teens, and she kept it up when in college. The girl's correspondence becomes as brazen in her lust for money and willingness to gratify the old man's wishes as are those of older women who "played him" for his gold.

CUBAN PROGRESS OF PAST 10 YEARS

UNCLE SAM STAUNCHLY BEARS
"WHITE MAN'S BURDEN"

"REMEMBER THE MAINE"

Answering the Call of that Battle Slogan We Have Fought Civilization's Fight

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 15.—

This is the 10th anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana; the 10th anniversary of that explosion which was indirectly responsible for the Spanish-American war; the 10th anniversary of the sacrifice of the lives of a host of American seamen to the gods of anarchy or accident—which, the 10 years have failed to definitely establish. Ten years is a long span of time, and yet the story of the Havana holocaust still echoes in the ears of America as though the reports were but of yesterday. The 10th anniversary should be fully celebrated in every American heart by a prayer of praise to heaven that other Maine disasters have not occurred and by a pean of honor and glory for those patriotic martyrs who gave up their lives beneath the stars and stripes.

Ten years ago tonight at 9:40 as the United States battleship Maine quietly lay at anchor in Havana harbor and while the sailors and officers were peacefully sleeping occurred the explosion which caused the death of 250 of the United States brave officers and sailors. The report of the explosion echoing and re-echoing ever louder called forth that patriotism which sounded the death-knell to Spanish tyranny in Cuba and established the Monroe doctrine of "America for Americans" forever.

"THE CITY BEAUTIFUL" IS OBJECTIVE OF PROPOSED PARK COMMISSION

The first move for "The City Beautiful" in La Crosse was made in the common council last evening when Mayor Anderson read a communication in which he suggested the appointment of a "park commission." It was referred to the ordinance and park committees and the city attorney.

The mayor entered into a discussion of this subject, the purpose of which was to show that, in the matter of beautification of a public nature, the city is deficient. He suggested that, while regarded as a model municipality in most things—in its streets, buildings and other public enterprises—this city has not availed itself in the utilization of its splendid resources for parks. All about he pointed out available park lands, and the adornment of Losey boulevard was suggested as most advisable.

The plan suggested by the executive lished the Monroe doctrine of "America for Americans" forever.

The Result.

Now that we are able to gauge the net results more clearly after 10 years have elapsed who is there who would not again go through the anguish of this disaster and resultant war to accomplish the end which was gained? Cuba is today centuries ahead of where it was only yesterday.

The United States has "taken up the white man's burden." We advanced civilization and gave liberty not only to Cuba, but the Philippines. The United States gained a prestige as a world power which it deserved, but could not have attained but on the battlefield. We glory in the deeds of heroism of the war which followed the disaster of February 15, but nowhere was there more bravery shown than on the battleship Maine 10 years ago tonight.

Our Brave Men.

All was chaos and consternation. Death was everywhere but we find the officers and men cool, collected and without the least show of excitement, under perfect discipline and ready to obey to the letter, even at the cost of life, the orders of the superior officers. Captain Sigbee issued his commands in a low voice and instantly the orders were obeyed. No man left the ship until the water was even with the upper decks and Captain Sigbee was the last to leave.

Our hearts go out in sorrow to the men who perished a decade ago for their country, and we honor these men who won a greater victory for the world in their death than they could possibly have won on any battlefield.

HETTY GREEN DECLINED TO LOAN CASH ON JEWELS

SHE "STAKED" MILLIONAIRES

Had Real Money and Loaned it —
Laughs at Foolish Mrs.
Vanderbilt

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Hetty Green says "never touched me" of the recent panic. She says it hit lots of the ultra-rich—rich in stocks, broke as to cash. She blames Roosevelt, and declares all he wants is a third term.

Hetty tells how she loaned cash to the dead-broke rich, when they needed it. She declares she had lots of real money, and she mentions the names of financial celebrities whom she aided. She also loaned large sums to mercantile princes to carry on their business.

But the Vanderbilts didn't get Hetty. They came, she says, bringing their great casket of family jewels, and wanting a loan on them. Not for Hetty! "They may have been all right," she says, "but I am not in the jewelry business, and I didn't know." Harry Payne Whitney and the New York Central are two beneficiaries of her loans, to the extent of a million or so each.

Regarding the Vanderbilts, Hetty had some sharp things to say. She don't approve of their amorous dispositions when titled swains are at large and unprotected. On that score she says:

"They say Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is going to marry a Hungarian count. She ought to have a guardian instead. Her husband was one of God's appointed. He was one of the finest men I ever knew. He gratified every whim of his wife, and she, poor woman, thinks every other man in the world is like him. She will be sadly disillusioned if she marries that foreigner."

"If she marries him the control of the Vanderbilt system of railroads will pass out of the family's hands. The millions which Gladys took to her husband have been shipped to Hungary, and the other millions which her mother will have to give up if she marries the count will be shipped to Hungary."

"That would leave the other members of the family in the position of having to purchase the railroad securities held by these two women and to pay cash for them."

"Those foreigners won't take any securities. When they marry us they demand real money."

Aged Canadian Denies Guilt to the Court and Intimates Witnesses
Were Forced to Testify

"Cousin George" Marchande, the "missing fortune" grafter who is said to have kissed and swindled about all the French-Canadian maids and matrons in the northwest, was this afternoon sentenced to four years' imprisonment at Waupun by Judge Fruit. Fruit denied Attorney Baldwin's motion for arrest of judgment and new trial. Marchande denied all allegations before sentence was passed and said the witnesses had been forced to testify and had been told their stories. He said he was 60 years old, but refused to answer the judge's question as to how long he had been in the swindling game. He was convicted of swindling Mrs. J. Olivette of French Island out of five dollars "fees" for "looking up her fortune."

PITTSBURG WARNED AND PEOPLE ARE FLEEING

ALL RIVERS JUMPING FAST

At Springfield, O., 400 Families Are Homeless and Streets Are Flooded Everywhere

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 15.—Warned of an approaching flood to break all records, the people of Pittsburgh are fleeing from the low portions of the city to the safety of higher ground. Residents are deserting their homes, some attempting to move and others taking merely their most immediate necessities. Merchants are deserting their shops and stores, and merchandise is being crowded into upper stories, while frantic efforts to get valuable property and stock out of basements is being made.

The warning was issued early today that the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers will reach a stage of thirty feet by morning. Twenty-two feet is a dangerous flood stage, and at 10 o'clock this morning the water had reached 19.10.

The greatest danger is from the ice, and this is expected to reach a climax late today, when the ice from the Youngbushen river joins that of the Allegheny. The river here has jumped five feet in two hours.

400 Families Homeless.

PERSIAN SHAH KILLED

VIENNA, Feb. 15.—A persistent report is in circulation here that the shah of Persia has been assassinated. No confirmation of the report is obtainable here.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Confirmation is still lacking of the report that the shah of Persia has been assassinated, communication with Teheran is always unreliable.

MOBILIZING TROOPS.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Russian army has been ordered mobilized at Odessa and Kiev, in the province of Don, according to the Exchange Telegraph company, which received news from St. Petersburg, on reliable authority. The St. Petersburg army order is attributed to the recent Russian troubles with Turkey. The sultan, who has been acting aggressively against Persia, recently invaded its territory and disregarded a peremptory demand from St. Petersburg for the withdrawal of his troops.

Basket ball enthusiasts were given a treat at Association hall last evening when the Y. M. C. A. team were defeated by the New York Nationals, in one of the most scientific games ever seen in this city.

The New York team has been touring the west for the past two months and has been defeated in but one game, when they fell before a star Chicago team. The playing of the Nationals is scientific and clean, free from roughness and attracts the interest of the spectators. Doyle and Studebaker were chosen by majors of the game last season for the all-eastern five. Their playing as well as the entire team's was spectacular and well aimed throws and perfect team work won much applause from the audience.

The first half ended with the score of 24 to 8 in favor of the Nationals, and although the local boys settled down in the second half they were unable to overcome the lead and the final score stood 44 to 25.

Manager Delfausse of the Nationals stated that the local team was one of the best amateur teams played on their tour and congratulated them on their team work.

DENY EAU CLAIRE TEAM SALE

However "Your Uncle John" Elliott Turned a Trick on 'em and La Crosse Has "the Bunch"

They can't believe it—the other clubs. The league associations are still figuring on what they will do with "their share" of the Eau Claire team.

They don't seem able to realize that "your uncle John" Elliott, head of the La Crosse association, shipped one over on 'em, before they woke up and now has the Eau Claire bunch in his vest pocket, to sell, trade, deal out or use—as he sees fit.

President Rodemeyer of Freeport modestly admits to a Freeport newspaper that he is figuring on a "couple of players" as his share from Eau Claire.

The Madison Journal, which devotes lots of space to baseball, and keeps tab pretty well on what's going on, says "La Crosse peddles a story" has landed the new men, but this yarn is not to be taken too seriously. It adds that Madison expects to come in for a "cut" from the Eau Claire team.

Rockford has already claimed the Eau Claire team, and the other clubs have not been heard from, but will likely have a claim also.

Meanwhile "your uncle John" Elliott is speculating on his new purchase, and expects to make a bundle of money for the local association as a result.

Things are again beginning to beam, since Eau Claire settled its row and everybody in the Wisconsin league is sitting up and noticing the keen though friendly rivalry between teams for advantages with which to start the season.

Viewing the local situation from the great distance of a few city squares, it would seem "Your Uncle John" Manager "Pink" and the "1908 Champs" had the best of the argument this far.

Madison Would Buy. However, the views from the various cities may be "newspaper talk." This is indicated by a letter received by Mr. Elliott from Madison asking for a list of the players with the prices of each. This indicates the Madison club owners understand the deal which gives La Crosse title to Eau Claire's players.

Fast Outside Teams.

There will be a large number of excellent outside teams in the independent amateur class this season, according to Mr. Elliott. Among them is the team which has been organized by Viroqua which will be one of the fastest amateur teams in the state and which is placing a strong bid for the amateur championship of the state.

They will have a first class battery in Davis and Shafer, the colored Gopher battery, and seven of their nine men are full paid players.

Caledonia, Minn., will also have a strong team this season and has signed up Eiken, the crack pitcher. Hunt will be the catcher and they will have the best amateur battery in Minnesota.

Houston, Minn., will have a good team, and Postville, and Decorah, Ia., will also have strong teams. Harmony, Minn., is also to have an amateur team in the field.

Baseball is taking great strides and many promising young players are working hard for honors.

DECISION OF JUDGE
MAY CAUSE SUITS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 15.—

There probably will be a rush of suits following the decision of Judge Brown of the district court that a university can be sued. Persons injured in the collapse of the east stand at the Chicago-Minnesota football game last November doubtless will commence actions immediately unless the board of athletic control settles the claims. These suits have been held off because it was popularly supposed a university could not be sued. Six persons were injured.

The university board of regents, or any of the officers, can be sued by the students, so Judge Brown decided. John L. Gleason, a student, sued the board of regents to get back into the university from which he claims he was unjustly expelled. The attorneys for the university maintained the university was a part of the state and could not be sued. Judge Brown overruled their contention.

"Germany" Schultz drew one "con" in his course in hydraulics. He must get that off soon if he wishes to try in the weight events this spring, and by next fall if he wants to head the gridiron bunch. Was-mund, varsity quarterback, got one pluck and one "con." Harry Hammond drew three "cons" and "Ocky" Graham, one of the brightest men in the engineering department, was "stung" in one course. BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Tom Longboat, the Indian long distance runner, who is to represent Canada at the Olympic games in London next summer, won the ten-mile relay race

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Wrestling is likely to follow boxing unless the promoters succeed in cutting out fake

It was the Geidel-Hudson bout, the second shady affair at the Casino, which made the chief pound his desk. Geisel, one of the best men on the C. A. A. wrestling squad, was easily defeated by one "Bert Hudson," alleged to be a dry goods clerk of St. Louis. It was, however, brought out that "Hudson" was none other than Ackerman, champion welter-weight wrestler of the country.

MR. ELLIOTT'S DIPLOMACY

Sixty days before the first Spalding regulation baseball box has been torn open in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, we have a demonstration of the wisdom of the local association in having retained the services of President Elliott. When the Eau Claire-Rockford controversy arose, all the other clubs got busy with excuses for getting our good neighbor out of the field. Mr. Elliott took the other end, because he "liked those boys," and because he felt it was neighborly to do so. But, that was not all he did. While the battle for the elimination of our baseball next-of-kin was in progress, Mr. Elliott quietly engineered a deal whereby La Crosse got the really excellent bunch of players constituting the Eau Claire team. Rockford went up with a franchise and no team. Other clubs—Freeport, for instance—came to a week later with important demands that it be given some of the Eau Claire stars.

But it is all of no use. The early bird caught the worm. There has been another exemplification of the brains and management which has twice enabled La Crosse to carry off the pennant. And as to those clubs that are mad about it, we really think they are prettier when they are in a rage.

CLEVAH, DONCHERKNOW!

While it allows it don't think much of Wall street and other stock exchanges, as the leading gambling bells are styled, the Chicago Tribune feels that were congress to attempt following the preachings of some of its members by raiding the game, it would succeed "like a bull in a china shop."

We up country folk think that to make of Wall street such an exhilarating finish as that proverbial toro is presumed to have made, would be the wisest of legislation. However, living in one of the Romes of stock speculation, we have no complaint against the Chicago paper doing as the Romans do. We wish, however, it would bring more logic to its labored excuse for defending the "game."

For instance, the newspaper quotes a distinguished votary of the New Orleans cotton policy shop, and approves his sentiments, the gist of the argument being found in the following paragraph:

"He can see nothing but harm in legislation aimed at the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges and at the system of marketing the great southern staple of which they are an essential part. He says also that the laws passed by different southern legislatures to prohibit future trading have not helped the planters. They have, however, cut off the army of speculators in those states, who were the main support of the market in efforts to get higher prices."

But, about a stickfull further on, and without seeming to lose the thread, the editor adds:

"Congress attempted during the civil war to put a stop to speculation in gold. It believed that the effect was to depreciate greenbacks and injure the national credit. So it forbade all contracts for the delivery of gold coin or bullion on any day subsequent to that on which the contract was made, and forbade all contracts for the sale of gold not actually in the possession of the seller. It was assumed that this law would abolish the premium on gold. But it jumped from 198 to 250, and in two weeks congress repealed the act."

So, if we follow the logician, because when the government legislated to prevent speculation in gold, the price of gold increased, therefore, if the government attempts legislation to prevent speculation in cotton, cotton prices will fall.

Perfectly plain—as plain as it is that any newspaper which attempts to justify stock gambling will render itself ridiculous.

THE FIRST "ROORBACK"

Because, the State Journal says, the Superior telegram said it, the said State Journal recently declared that, in a Minneapolis speech, our rotund and smiling friend "Bill" Powell, publicity director of the La Follette presidential campaign, told his hearers that it was not the expectation of the promoters of that enterprise to elect "Bob" now, but that he was merely in training for 1912. Further than that the paper did not proceed, and it was of course an innocent phraseology which left the impression that at this point Mr. Powell was attacked by buck fever in a violent form, and just naturally subsided.

Mr. Powell, we are credibly informed, really made an effective speech, and the suggestion that he could have been guilty of a display of idiocy such as the State Journal understood he gave, appealed to people who know him as absurd. Indeed, the explanation of the Madison paper, that it published it because another paper did, offers a logical solution. Suppose the other paper did print it. The State Journal, incredulous but pleased because it is "agin" La Follette, snickered in its sleeve, and rushed it off to press before there was a chance for the expected vociferous denial to appear. Just, for instance, as a lawyer hurriedly asks a question which the witness is coached to answer with equal haste, when that lawyer knows the objection of the opposing council will be sustained, and the answer stricken from the record. But he had got the answer to the jury, and the judge could not order it stricken from the memory of the jurors. So, we presume, the State Journal got to its subscribers, on the alleged word of a La Follette campaign official, the declaration that the La Follette candidacy is not "on the square."

For the information of any who are interested, it is fair to state that the expected vociferous denial duly arrived, and that in it Mr. Powell said:

"Editor State Journal: While the roorback is by custom an indispensable part of a campaign, I must confess that its appearance at this time strikes me as being somewhat premature. I had always understood that the ethics of journalism recognized the open season for roorbacks as being confined to ten days before election. Under these circumstances I feel that it is not quite fair to spring a roorback on me at this stage of the campaign. In my brief talk at Minneapolis I said absolutely nothing which could furnish the foundation for the report that I said that Senator La Follette's candidacy is a preliminary appearance for the campaign in 1912. This is direct, official, personal and authentic.

"W. W. POWELL."

STILL IN LOVE WITH "IKEY."
"Ikey" Karel, now judge John Karel, of Milwaukee. How well District Attorney Thomas Konnop, of Kewaunee, knows him! He has many friends in La Crosse; he married one of La Crosse's fairest women. We first knew him when "Ikeyism" was the name of a Hoyles, individual, dare-devil species of football irresistible alike by the opposing team and to the fair co-eds in the grandstand. But even in that period of sophomore dignity, there was in whole-souled and whole-bodied "Ikey" some reflection of a devil-may-care boyhood to which the attorney makes loving and humorous allusion.

It was at a dinner of the Milwaukee Jefferson club, with "Ikey" as guest of honor. Kewaunee, the old home town, was there to pay its respects in the persons of leading citizens, and if Judge Karel never really understood before just how that home of his cradle days adores him, he knows now. In an account of the dinner, the story is told in this way:

"As a boy, 'Ikey,' or as we knew him, 'Johnny' Karel, always was 'Johnny on the spot,'" said Mr. Konnop. "He was one of the sights of the town and nothing ever happened but that 'Johnny' Karel was there in the midst of it. As a very young lad 'Johnny' was best known to local fame for the glory of his pantaloons. They were not so very hifalutin, those pantaloons. Even 'Johnny' was not so sanguine as to describe them as fashionable. In fact, when you first looked at 'Johnny's' pantaloons you wondered vaguely whether he were coming or going."

"But 'Johnny' was a hustler. He was a fighter, too, though not quarrelsome. He had good lungs and his voice could be heard afar off. That, no doubt, was why 'Johnny' always got a job with circuses and soap and jewelry fakers who came to town. 'Johnny' was a sympathetic boy. He always 'was on the spot' when a smaller boy was in trouble, and no hand was gentler, no voice more tender, when playmates needed a friend."

Turning to Judge Karel, who sat at the left of Toastmaster Mallory, Mr. Konnop said with deep feeling: "Judge Karel, I bear a message from Kewaunee to you. From that dear old Kewaunee that gave you birth and brought you up; beneath whose stately elms you romped, on whose hills you sported as a boy. The city of Kewaunee is proud of you, Judge Karel. It regrets that you have gone to broader fields, but it rejoices that in your prosperity and success never have you forgotten the city of your birth. God speed you, 'Johnny' Karel. God bless you, 'Johnny' Karel, for whatever you do, you never will fail to fulfill as best you can the high hopes Kewaunee has for you."

All that newspaper talk about the Ryan man having "Herb" Manson beaten to a standstill, indulged in before the convention show-down, in juxtaposition with the story of the Wausau lawyer's final triumph, recalls the innocent expression with which, in college days, "Herb" would rake in a bunch of the red, white and blue with the naive explanation, "I passed it up for a play."

PUBLIC OPINION IS EFFICIENT—SMITH

Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—In his annual report Commissioner Smith says that public opinion has been prompt and efficient in the correction of commerce evils when these evils are stated specifically. The experiment of the bureau, says Commissioner Smith, seems to point logically to the need for an extension of such results by the creation of a general administrative system of supervision of interstate corporations which shall give, in substantially the same form as is furnished now for a few corporations, the essential facts relating to all the great interstate corporations. There is no need that such federal supervision should derogate from the proper powers of the state.

"Corporate combination, as such, appears to be not only an economic necessity but also largely an accomplished fact. It is not the existence of industrial power but its misuse that is the real problem. The government should direct its attention toward preventing unfair methods, and toward keeping open the opportunities for competition in industry."

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., recently ordered from a French maker ten cars of a racing type of 45-horsepower, for which he paid $12,000 apiece.

FASHION HINTS

(By May Mantion.)

5913 Girl's Box Plait Costume, 8 to 14 years.

Box plaits are generally becoming to the younger girls and are greatly in vogue. Here is an exceedingly attractive little frock that shows them used to advantage and which is adapted to serge, to cashmere, to henrietta, to all similar materials and which also can be utilized for linen and other inexpensive wash fabrics. In this instance the chemisette of plaid silk while the dress itself is made of Bordeaux red henrietta cloth and there is a trimming of velvet. The combination can be varied again and again, however, and by simply omitting the body lining and cutting a separate chemisette washable fabrics of various weights can be utilized. The lines are all graceful and becoming and the frock is altogether one to be commended. The dress is made with the waist and skirt. The lining is faced to form the chemisette and the collar finishes the neck edge while the sleeves are laid in inverted plaits and are tucked at their lower edges and the skirt is five eored. If the lining is not used the chemisette can be cut from it and attached to the waist.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (12 years) is 8 1/2 yards, 24, 6 1/2 yards 32, or 4 1/2 yards 44 inches wide.

No Pay for Old Sermons

"In the last analysis there is nothing new that any of us can say," said Booker T. Washington in Cambridge. "The doctrines of love, of punishment, of reward and of the future life are as old as the world. This reminds me of an old negro whom I met in the hills down south at a church where I was beseeching the audience to stand by their pastor and pay him a salary. I spoke as eloquently as I could. I watched my audience and saw that I had everyone with me but this old fellow in the rear, who kept mulling to himself whenever I finished an argument. Finally I called out to him, and asked why he opposed paying a salary to his hard working minister."

"No sub; no sub; we shan't pay him no more salary this year. He's giving us the same sermons he gave last year," he said.—Boston Herald.

Preparing for the Future

Mrs. Jenkins had missed Mrs. Brady from her accustomed haunts, and hearing several startling rumors concerning her, went in search of her old friend.

"They tell me you're workin' 'ard nigh' an' day, Sarah Ann?" she queried.

"Yes," returned Mrs. Brady, "I'm under bonds to keep the peace for pullin' the whiskers out of that old scoundrel of a husband of mine, and the magistrate said that if I come afore 'im ag'in, or laid me 'nds on the old man, he'd fine me 40 shillins!"

"And so you're workin' 'ard to keep out of mischief?"

"I'm what? Not much! I'm workin' 'ard to save up the fine."

Substitute Laundresses
"Will you please tell your mother that the washing is not satisfactory?" said a lady who had her laundering done by elbow work alone.

"Muvver's away," was the reply of the lad.

"Well, who does the washing when your mother's away?"

"Farver and anniver gentleman!"

A Stir at Big Bend

Beesum Baxter committed suicide Tuesday night by calling Tom Jackson a liar without provocation or a gun. We shall publish his biography next week with pleasure and a half-ton cut of the deceased. Some of our delinquents say they don't pay because they can't draw cash from the banks. Of course they can't draw out anything they didn't put in, but they'll pay just the same by January 1, or there will be some strange mugs in heaven.—Big Bend Cor. Riverton (Wyo.) Republican.

ALADDIN OF LONDON

BY MAX PEMBERTON
(Authors and Newspaper Association Copyright.)

He repeated his fears, pacing the room and smoking incessantly. The whole danger of a situation is not usually realized upon its first statement, but every instant added to this man's apprehension and brought the drops of sweat anew to his forehead. He had planned to arrest both Borisoff and his daughter. The Russian Government, seeking the financial support of his house, fell in readily with his plans and commanded the police to assist him. Paul Borisoff himself had been arrested at the frontier station upon an endeavor to return to Poland. His daughter Lois, warned in some mysterious manner, had fled from the school where she was being educated and put herself beyond the reach of her father's enemies. This was the simple story of the plot. But God alone could tell what the price of failure might be.

"It is very easy to say what we must do," the Count observed, "the difficulties remain. Identify this girl for us among the twenty thousand who answer to her description in Warsaw, and I will undertake that the Government shall deal well by her. But who is to identify her? Where is your agent to be found? Name him to me and the task begins tonight. We can do nothing more. I say again that my Government has done all in its power. The rest is with you, Herr Gessner, to direct us where we have failed."

Gessner made no immediate answer. Perhaps he was about to admit the difficulties of the Count's position and to agree that identification was impossible, when suddenly his glance fell upon Alban, waiting, as he had asked, until the interview should be done. And what an inspiration was that—what an instantaneous revelation of possibilities. Let this lad go to Warsaw and he would discover Lois Borisoff quickly enough. The girl had been in love with him and would hold her tongue at his bidding. As in a flash, he perceived this spar which should save him, and clutched at it. Let the lad go to Warsaw—let him be the agent, if the police arrested the girl after all—well, that would be an accident which he might regret, but certainly would not seek to prevent. A man whose life is imperiled must be one in ten thousand if any common dictates of faith or conduct guide him. Richard Gessner had a fear of death so terrible that he would have dared the uttermost treachery to save himself.

"Count," he exclaimed suddenly, "our agent is here, in this room. He will go to Warsaw at your bidding. He will find the girl."

The Count, who knew something of Alban's story already, received the intimation as though he had expected it. "It was for that I asked him to wait. I have been thinking of it. He will go to Warsaw and tell the lady that she may obtain her father's liberty upon a condition. Let her make a direct appeal to the Government—and we will consider it. Of course you intend an immediate departure—you are not contemplating a delay, Herr Gessner?"

"Delay—am I the man to delay? He shall go tomorrow by the first train."

"A smile hovered upon the Count's face in spite of himself. "In a week," he was saying to himself, "Lois Borisoff shall be flogged in the Schusselburg."

In truth, the whip was the weapon he liked best—when women were to be schooled.

CHAPTER XX.

Alban Goes to Warsaw.
Alban had never been abroad, and it would have been difficult for him to give any good account of his journey to Warsaw. The swiftly changing scenes, the new countries, the uproar and strife of cities, the glamour of the sea, put upon his ripe imagination as one apart, almost as a dreamer who had forgotten how to dream.

He carried an abiding impression it was that of the miracle of travel and the wonders that travel could work. In twenty hours he had almost forgotten the existence of the England he had left. Chains of bondage fell from his willing shoulders. He felt as one released from a prison house to all the freedom of a boundless world.

And so at last he came to the beautiful city of Warsaw and his sterner task began. Here, as in London, that pleasant person Count Sergius Zamoyiski reminded him how considerable was the service he could confer, not alone upon his patron but upon the friends of his evil days.

"It has all been a mistake," the Count would say with fine protestation of regret; "my Government arrested that poor old fellow Borisoff, but it would gladly let him go. To begin with, however, we must have pledges. You know perfectly well that the man is a fanatic and will work a great mischief unless some saner head prevents it. We must find his daughter and see that she promises to hold her tongue concerning our friend at Hampstead. When that is done, we shall pack off the pair to London and they will carry a good round sum in their pockets. Herr Gessner is not the man to deal ungenerously with them—nor with you to whom he may owe so much."

He was a shrewd man of the world, this amiable diplomat, and who can wonder that so simple a youth as Alban Kennedy proved no match for him. Alban honestly believed that he would be helping both Gessner and his old friends, the Borisoffs, should he discover little Lois' whereabouts and take her back to London. A very natural longing to see her once more added to the excitement of the journey. He would not have been willing to confess this interest, but it prompted him secretly so that he was often reminding himself of the old days when Lois had been his daily companion and their mutual confidences had been their mutual pleasure. Just as a knight-errant of the old time might set out to seek his mistress, so did Alban go to Warsaw determined to succeed. He would find Lois in this whirling wonderland of delight, and, finding her, would return triumphant to their home.

Now, they arrived in Warsaw upon the Thursday evening after the memorable interview at Hampstead; and driving through the crowded streets of that pleasant city, by its squares, its gardens, and its famous palaces, they descended at last at the door of the Hotel de France; and there they heard the fateful news which the city itself had discussed all day and would discuss far into the night.

General Trubenoff, the new Dictator, had been shot dead at the gate of the Arsenal that very afternoon, men said, and the Revolutionaries were already armed and abroad. What would happen in the next few hours of heaven and the Deputy Governor alone could tell. Were this not sufficiently significant, the aspect of the great Square itself was menacing enough to awe the imagination even of the least impressionable of travelers. Excited crowds passed and repassed; Cossacks were riding by at the gallop—even the reports of distant rifle shots were to be heard and, from time to time, the screams and curses of those upon whose faces and shoulders the soldiers' whips fell so pitilessly.

In the great hall of the hotel itself pandemonium reigned. Afraid of the streets and of their homes, the wives and daughters of many officials fled hither as to a haven of refuge which would never be suspected. They crowded the passages, the staircases, the reception-rooms. They besieged the officers for news of that which befell without. Their terrified faces remained a striking tribute to the ferocity of their enemies and the reality of the peril.

Let it be said in justice that this majestic spectacle of tragedy found Alban Kennedy well prepared to understand its meaning. Had he told the truth he would have said that the mob orators of Union Street had prepared him for such a state of things as he now beheld. The Cossacks, were they not the Cossacks whom old Paul had called "the enemies of the human race?" The gilt-bellared generals, had he not seen them cast upon the screen in England and there heard their names with curses? Just as they had told him would be the case, so now he had stumbled upon autocracy face to face with its ancient enemy, the people. He saw the brutal Cossacks with their puny horses and their terrible whips parading beneath his balcony and treating all the poor folk with that insolence for which they are famous. He beheld the huddled crowds lifting white faces to the sky and cowering before the relentless lash. Not a whit had the patriot exiles in London exaggerated these things or misrepresented them. Men, and women too, were struck down, their faces ripped by the thongs, their shoulders lacerated before his very eyes. And all this, as he vaguely understood, that freedom might be denied to this nation and justice withheld from her citizens. Truly had he travelled far since he left England a few short days ago.

Sergius Zamoyiski had engaged a handsome suite of rooms upon the first floor of the magnificent modern hotel which looks down upon the Alaj Avenue, and to these they went at once upon their arrival. It was something at least to escape from the excited throngs below and to stand apart, alike from the rabble and the soldiers. Nor was the advantage of their situation to be despised; for they had but to step out upon the veranda before their sitting-rooms to command the whole prospect of the avenue, and there, at their will, to be observers of the conflict. To Sergius Zamoyiski, familiar with such scenes, Warsaw offered no surprises whatever. To Alban it remained a city of whirlwind, and of human strife and suffering beyond all imagination terrible. He would have been content to remain out there upon that high balcony until the last trooper had ridden from the street and the last bitter cry been raised. The Count's invitation to dinner seemed grotesque in its reversion to commonplace affairs.

"All this is an every-day affair here now," that young man remarked with amazing nonchalance; "since the workmen began to shoot the patrols, the city has had no peace. I see that it interests you very much. You will find it less amusing when you have been in Russia for a month or two. Now let us dress and dine while we can. Those vultures down below will not leave a bone of the carcass if we don't take care."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ of the seed and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a pale malt, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances renders it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

PALIWODA HELD IN $1,500 BAIL BOND

SAYS TRAMP'S GAVE HIM THE STOLEN GOODS

NOISELESS WINDOWBREAKING

Something Entirely New to Police is Developed in Case Against Indian Hill Man

Something new to the local police in the burglary line was brought out at the hearing of John Paliwoda, alleged burglar, held late yesterday afternoon.

Henry Schmidt, the complainant in the case, testified that in breaking a window to gain admission to his store, the robber first smeared the glass with a rubber paste preparation and then pasted to this a piece of cloth. When this was sufficiently dried the glass was hit a sharp blow with a stick and it would fall to pieces. Instead of the usual clatter caused by breaking glass it would merely cling to the rag, thus eliminating the noise.

Paliwoda was bound over to the circuit court by Judge Brindley and bail was set at $1,500, in default of which he was taken to the county jail.

The defense offered by Paliwoda was that he had met two tramps on the "Q" tracks and they had presented him with the goods found by the undersheriff in his house. His case will probably be heard at the May term of court.

KENTUCKY BREEDERS WILL PLEAD FOR LAW

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 15.—About fifty breeders representing thoroughbred horse interests of central Kentucky, comprising the bluegrass region, met at the Phoenix hotel here and decided to send a committee to Albany, N. Y., to appear before the New York legislature to protest against the repeal of the Percy-Gray bill, pleading that it will work great injury not only to thoroughbred interests of New York, but the whole country as well. It was stated by men at the meeting that if the bill is repealed the thoroughbred industry would suffer 25 to 50 per cent.

Colonel Milton Young of McGrath, Iowa Stud, C. H. Berryman, manager of J. B. Haggins' Elmendorf stock farm, and T. J. Catson of Dixiana farm were appointed a committee to select a delegation to send to Albany and this will be done at once. It is a curious fact that some of the best known breeders of the blue grass were against the Kentuckians taking action in the matter, declaring that the New York legislature would probably deem it an intrusion for a delegation from another state to go there. It was, however, pointed out that no attempt would be made to dictate but that these breeders were simply acting for the best interests of the thoroughbred industry.

Better Change

When you discover that the use of coffee as a beverage is undermining your health.

Many persons who suspect that palpitation of the heart with a "smothery" sensation is caused by coffee, don't seem to know how to break the fetters forged upon them by caffeine—the drug in coffee.

They want a hot beverage for breakfast and may have "tried Postum" (weakly made by simply steeping it in hot water, or "letting it come to a boil") and did not relish it.

No wonder! Boil Postum 15 minutes as per directions on pkg., add good cream and then try it. In 10 days you may safely expect a decided change for the better. Keep it up and you will discover.

SEEKS TO FREEZE OUT HER TENANTS

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson yesterday asked Judge Brindley to issue a warrant for their landlady because she had taken the windows from their rented home, when they declined to move.

They charged that their rent was paid until Feb. 3, but that their landlady demanded rent in advance. When this was refused, and they declined to move, to the woman, the alleged, came to their home on Pine street and had the windows removed from the house in an effort to "freeze them out."

Judge Brindley could not issue a warrant, and it is likely the Wilkinsons will start a suit to compel their landlady to put the windows back into place.

"We have no contract," he said. "We could afford to make such an arrangement only upon the establishment of an exceedingly low rate."

DOCTOR ADVISED USE OF CUTICURA

After Other Treatment Failed—Eczema in Raw Spot on Baby Boy's Face Lasted for Months—Cried with Pain when Washed.

ECZEMA WAS CURED AND HAS NEVER REAPPEARED

"Our baby boy broke out with eczema on his face when one month old. One place on the side of his face the size of a nickel was raw like beefsteak for three months, and he would cry out when I bathed the parts that were sore and broken out. I gave him three months' treatment from a good doctor, but at the end of that time the cure was no better. Then my doctor recommended Cuticura. After using a cake of Cuticura Soap, a third of a box of Cuticura Ointment, and half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent he was well and his face was as smooth as any baby's. He is now two years and a half old and no eczema has reappeared. I am still using the Cuticura Soap. I think it is the finest toilet soap I ever used. I keep my little girl's hair and face cleansed with it too. I am so thankful for what Cuticura has done for me. Mrs. M. L. Harris, R. P. D. 1, Alton, Kan., May 14 and June 12, '07."

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. Improvement began with the first bottle, and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again," says George Moore, of Grimesland, N. C. As a remedy for coughs and colds and healer of weak, sore lungs and for preventing pneumonia New Discovery is supreme. 50c and $1.00 at O. T. Erhart, druggist. Trial bottle free.

BUSY MEETING OF COUNCIL IS HELD

IMPORTANT COMMUNICATIONS FROM MAYOR ARE READ

STREET IMPROVEMENT CUT

Tightness of Money Market Results in Elimination—Other Routine Passed On

The sensation of rather sensations at the council meeting last night was a batch of communications from Mayor Anderson, in which he dealt a slap at the complainants in the auditorium injunction suit, placed the alleged president of the late lamented Central Electric company, temporarily at least, in an embarrassing position, and advocated the establishment of a park commission to foster and improve the parks of the city.

Routine business of considerable extent was rapidly disposed of. The street improvement outlay for 1908, estimated at $116,000, of which the city must have borne about one-fourth, was practically eliminated, owing to the tight condition of the money market. About $5,000 for imperative improvements will be spent.

In a communication to the aldermen Dr. Anderson suggested further pruning of the light bills, reciting the saving and improved service resulting from the cut in price from $55 to $70 per lamp, made during his former administration.

By the communication route the mayor called attention of the aldermen to the fact that for three years the Central Electric company had not paid its taxes, disclosing also a peculiar mystery as to who is the Central Electric company.

Following this the mayor read a communication explaining the auditorium project and taking exceptions to the motives and conduct of those who defeated the plan.

Vendor War Ends

The Abraham-Monson fruit vending feud will probably sink into seclusion, as the result of a resolution prohibiting the appearance of push carts and fruit vendors at the Milwaukee and Burlington depots, the territory dispute concerning which had led to many battles royal between these sons of "sunny Italy."

The bill for city salaries for the month was read, the fire department and other city department records were received and placed on file and routine financial business was disposed of.

That Salary Cut

The schedule of salaries for the police department, recently fixed by the fire and police commission, was brought up, and it was stated on inquiry that Chief Webber had consented to a reduction of $500 in the salary of chief, based upon the fact of his newness in office. The salaries established are:

Chief, $1,650; detective, $1,000; captain, $1,080; night sergeant, $1,225; day sergeant, $1,025; patrolmen, $900.

On further inquiry as to the reduction in the chief's salary, a letter received by the police commission from Mr. Webber was read, in which the latter specifically approved and consented to the change.

Batch of Routine

The north side high school project was negatively disposed of on the ground of lack of sufficient population. Alderman Lang's plan to have the council proceedings published in the German papers was brought up, and may be adopted. Sewer and pavement at the new Michel brewery was provided for. Engineer Bradish called attention to the necessity of condemning 100 feet of land overlooked in the Milwaukee railway trade. Alderman Keller read a communication calling upon the city for the payment of $200 to the fund of the Upper Mississippi Improvement association. With the disposal of this routine adjournment was taken.

BOYS FINED FOR STEALING CIGARS

For the second time within a year a number of North side boys were arraigned before Judge Brindley yesterday afternoon on the charge of looting box cars in the Milwaukee yards, this time the offence being the stealing cigars from a freight car on January 26.

Out of consideration for the boys' parents, the charge made against the boys was only petty larceny. The fines were as follows:

Ray Taylor, aged 18, $25 fine or 20 days in the county jail. George Seike, 20, $15 or 20 days in jail. Ralph Taylor, 15, Ernest Nebraska, 15, and Henry Schaefer, 14, each $5 or six days in jail.

SUIT FOR WAGES BROUGHT UP TODAY

Homer Robinson has brought suit against L. C. Jenks for alleged breach of contract to the sum of $1,050, the cost opening in circuit court this morning.

Plaintiff claims that on Jan. 2 he was to get work from Mr. Jenks for one year and that he was subsequently discharged on March 21 during which time he was employed at a salary of $100 per month.

Robinson has therefore brought suit to recover the balance of his wages just as though he fulfilled his contract. In the meanwhile Robinson has been in the employ of the Grof & Derr Construction company, at a salary of $21 per week.

The case was adjourned until 9:30 Monday morning by order of the court.

A HARD YEAR FOR CATARRH TROUBLE

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers unless great care is taken to keep the feet dry, also dress warmly.

This is the advice of a well-known authority and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion one half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

These are mostly vegetable ingredients and can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.

convention indicated that the young men are in the saddle and "taking a deep interest."

No Factionalism.

"The convention was entirely harmonious, and there was no indication of a party breach," said Mr. Doherty. He said that the contests which had been played up in the papers were personal, not factional. The two democrats on the Badger congressional delegation, Mr. Doherty said, told the convention that in congress "all was gloom on the republican side and sunshine on the democratic side."

"Our republican friends will not dare talk about fifty cent dollars, when after twelve years of absolute republican control of the government in all its branches the banks had to resort to the issue of clearing house certificates. Too many wealthy men like Walsh and the life insurance officials, who talked about the 'national honor' a few years ago, are either now in the penitentiary or are known to deserve to be there, to have the people place reliance in what the party of that class says."

Can't Cash Promises

Mr. Doherty says the republicans must come out in the open and fight, and that they can't make good with indefinite promises about the tariff and the trusts, "nor action which borders on insanity, such as some of the radical republicans would give us."

NORMAL PLANS ARE GIVEN CONTRACTORS

The plans and specifications for the La Crosse normal school arrived in the city this morning and this evening all contractors of the city are expected to meet at Senator Morris' office in the Linker building to decide upon which shall have the first "shot" at them in making up their bids.

The contractors will figure their estimates and hand them in to the state board and it is likely the contract will be awarded within a month or less.

LEONARD B. MARSH IS LAID TO REST

Tippman, 114 North Fifth street. Rev. C. N. Moller of the Christ Episcopal church, conducted the services and interment took place at the Catholic cemetery.

MINSTREL SHOW A COMPLETE SUCCESS

The minstrel show given by the Lino-Douglas Debating society at the high school auditorium, last evening, eclipsed all previous efforts of home talent, and won continuous applause from one of the largest audiences ever assembled at the high school.

New and original jokes were given and several parodies on faculty and students gave cause for special applause, and the leaders were several times encored.

The hit of the evening was the singing of the boy soprano Ambrose Coughlin, who rendered "Be Sweet to Me, Kid," making a decided hit with the audience. He was called back several times.

The minstrel was a success in every way and the members of the school are to be congratulated upon their success.

Prof. Yawnoc Mr. Ed Conway

Prof. Bizee Yawnoc, who had in charge the training of the participants in the show was not the gentleman from the east as was supposed but turned out to be the popular amateur actor of the city, Mr. Ed Conday. In some unaccounted for manner his name was spelled back wards and remained that way until last night, when it developed that the celebrated eastern professor was a citizen of La Crosse. The show was just as good notwithstanding the name and met with deserved success.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located, and explains why it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Epilepsy, Fits

Convulsions, or Spasms and St. Vitus' Dance are Nervous Diseases. Most cases can be cured by strengthening and building up the nervous system. To do this a nerve medicine is needed. Dr. Miles' Nerveine will be found efficacious and satisfactory. It has cured many cases of these diseases and we believe it will cure you. We can give you names of many who have been cured through its use. Write for advice.

"My son John had epilepsy for years, and after having him treated by specialists for over 2 years he still continued to have spells. I had almost given up in despair, but knowing the virtue of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick headache, I concluded to try the Nerveine. During June, 1906, I gave him a teaspoonful three times a day, then in July I gave it as directed, and I could see that he was improving, and he has not had a spell since August 28, 1906, and has taken no medicine since Jan. '07. I am writing the case just as it is hoping it will induce others to try it."

MARVELOUS WORK OF DEVELOPMENT

The telephone system is unquestionably the most marvelous of man's works, and its greatest marvel is that it has been brought to its present state of perfection in less than half the span of a human life. It is a striking fact, too, that every advance in telephony has been accomplished by the work of the Bell experts, while most of the men contributing to this development are still living and active.

The Bell companies, of which the Wisconsin Telephone Company is one of the oldest, thus always have been at the head of the march of progress. Every improvement or economy—each meaning ultimate saving to the public—is immediately available to them. Switchboards and all the intricate apparatus connected with them; line building; underground construction; even the process of hardening copper wire so as to give it strength to bear its own weight were devised and developed after the telephone instrument was invented. The Wisconsin Company's plant is kept up-to-the-moment all the time to make the most efficient service possible, even at the cost of more than one partial reconstruction.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY

The week in society has been tending toward quietness, several dances having been among the largest affairs held; the one on Tuesday night at the Masonic temple given by Dr. and Mrs. Farrand was a delightful affair and attended by nearly one hundred guests. Undoubtedly a feeling of gloom has been cast over the city by the prevalence of so much sickness and the several sad bereavements which have visited different homes. The weather has been unpropitious during the greater part of the week and sleighing parties came to an abrupt end, in some cases, before the realization, on account of the rapid disappearance of the snow—in fact some of the disappointed ones will use buses, it is rumored for their interrupted trips.

Sybil Sammis gave a delightful program of song at the theater Wednesday evening which was the musical event of the week. Tonight a first class attraction, Robert Edson in "Classmates," is on the boards and on next Monday evening will again be seen the famous play of love and finance, "The Lion and the Mouse," with Miss Dorothy Donnelly as the leading woman.

Some pleasant affairs have been enjoyed in church circles, the supper at the M. E. church on Thursday evening and that at the Congregational church the same night being each well attended. Numerous afternoons for social chat are noted and the card clubs have done their share toward keeping the ball of social activity rolling.

BASKET SOCIAL

The young people of the German Lutheran church, on the corner of Avon and St. Paul streets, will give a basket social next Friday evening, Feb. 21st. Each lady is requested to bring a basket containing lunch for two. During the evening the baskets will be auctioned, the highest bidder receiving the basket. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

ROBERTSON SPEAKS FOR AN ENDOWMENT THEATER

The doings of the Donald Robertson company of players in Chicago are followed with a good deal of interest by their many La Crosse friends, and it is a pleasure to know that an endowed theater is within the possibilities of the not too far off future. The idea of a permanent playhouse, a real home theater for the performance of the best in drama, has long been a cherished plan of Mr. Robertson and such a one may be established through his efforts and for his use in the city of Chicago. Recently a banquet was held at the City club at which several men prominent in letters and in the civic affairs of the city were present and gave addresses on the subject, "The Theater and the City."

Mr. Robertson was the principal speaker and was listened to with great interest by the large number of members present.

Among the speakers were Hamlin Garland, Arthur T. Aldis and Mr. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor. Mr. Robertson said in part:

"In your city you have given a home to what the men in line and color can do—an emotionally express in line, color or in form—and you call it the Art Institute. You have given to Beethoven and his brothers, the Thomas Orchestra hall, but the theater that shall be the nest of the noble imaginings of the great dramatists you have yet to give to your city. Now I know that bricks and mortar don't amount to a great deal. * * * It is what is produced inside of it, and the company of actors that are the chief necessity. Humbly we have started that company and mean to go on until you recognize our worth and give us a home. And while we are together we shall produce nothing but the best. * * * I hold that the theater."

Mr. Hamlin Garland: "I not only honor actors like Mr. Robertson but I pin my faith to them. As I look out over the dramatic world today the situation shapes itself up in this way: Here and there, talented actors, men and women, come to feel exactly as Mr. Donald Robertson does, that it is not worth while playing cheap and nasty stuff to tired business men—and I don't like to write for the tired business man. * * * I want a man to come to the reading of my books with his mind clear and active and I quite agree with Mr. Robertson that the place for a tired business man is in bed with a sedative. * * * Now I don't think Mr. Robertson is disheartened. He has everything to make him so, but I don't think he is so, neither am I, because here and there in the ruck of the drama of our day, I discover signs of progress. * * * My notion is that if a distinctive theater were organized under any arrangement whereby the production of a play would come to have the same significance that a book with the imprint of Scribner & Co., or Houghton & Mifflin has in the book world, then we would have a successful theater producing high class work."

Mr. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor: "I agree with Mr. Robertson that the drama is the noblest of all the arts. It makes the most direct appeal and it makes the widest appeal. There is not a man in this room, I dare say, who does not spend $50 a year on the theater, and a great portion of that money goes to musical comedies. If that fifty dollars could be expended in an art theater, the art theater would not be a dream but a fact."

Mr. Arthur T. Aldis: "Now we have in Mr. Robertson, I at any rate am satisfied, a man who has courage and inspiration and taste—and I think he has practical ability as well. * * * If Chicago lets this opportunity slip by and Mr. Robertson fails to be financially supported, you may wait a long time before you have this prime requisite again."

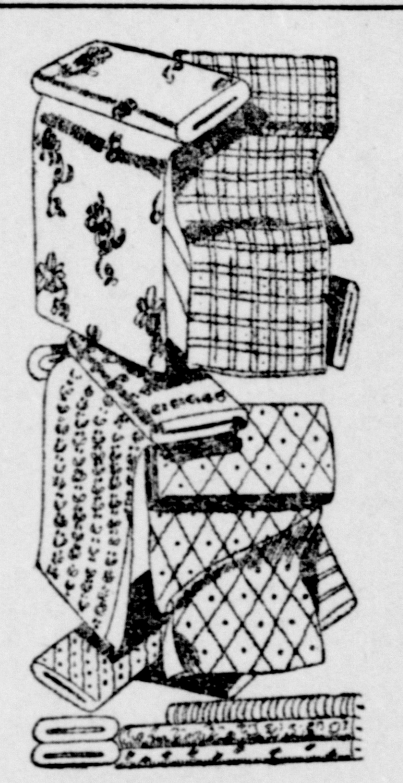

"The public cannot be educated to like the best in drama and dramatic art in any one year or two years. It took much longer than that to do it in music. But it can be done if the members of the City club and other public spirited associations will agree to buy enough tickets in advance. Don't let us miss the opportunity while we have Mr. Robertson here."

HARRIS SECURES ANOTHER STAR

Dustin Farnum, who became established as a star in "The Virginian," and who has lately appeared in a similar capacity under the direction of Charles Frohman in "The Ranger," has been added to the list of Henry B. Harris' stars. Mr. Harris completed arrangements by cable last week with Mr. Frohman, by which he has secured the services of Mr. Farnum, who will be presented by him at the Bijou theatre on March 2 in "The Rector's Garden," a new play of American life by Byron Ongley. The cast to support the star is one of the most notable of the season, and includes in its roster besides Mr. Farnum the following players: Grace Elliston, Eileen Errol, Madeline Lewis, Ina Hamer, Emily Baker, William Courtenay, Chas. Abbott, T. B. Findlay, R. A. Roberts, Frank Kilday and Al. Roberts.

NOVELIZES THE CHORUS LADY.

John W. Harding, who has made the novelization of James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," shortly to be issued in book form by G. W. Dillingham company, is best remembered by the last book from his pen, "The Gate of the Kiss," published five years ago. The book, after it ran into many editions in America, was brought out in England, then translated into French, German and Italian. Since that time Mr. Harding has been devoting himself to newspaper work, having been until last year a member of the editorial staff of the N. Y. Times, which he quit temporarily to establish and edit the popular scientific monthly, "Discovery."

A TICKET SPECULATOR CASE.

The suit of Orwan against Klaw and Erlanger for $500 damages was tried on Feb. 6 in the Sixth district court before Judge Prince and a jury. The plaintiff asserted that he had been excluded from witnessing the performance of "The Merry Widow" at the New Amsterdam theatre on the night of Dec. 15, on the ground that he had purchased two $1.50 balcony seats from a sidewalk speculator. He also asserted that he had purchased the seats at the theatre box office. Judge Prince ruled that the plaintiff could recover only $3, the sum he had paid for the two seats, and he instructed the jury so to find for plaintiff. The judge further said that the owners of a theatre could exclude anybody they desired from their theatre. The case was defended by Dittenhoefer, Gerber and James.

ISSUES THEATRICAL PAPER.

The enterprise and enthusiasm of the Jesse L. Lasky company is apparently still at the boiling point. The latest from the Lasky offices is a theatrical periodical issued weekly called "The Orpheum News," which is published at Yonkers, N. Y., where the Laskys own the Orpheum Theatre. It is an unusual little sheet, suggesting theatrical hints and full of the latest vaudeville news. It may be added that the Lasky interests are now so great that it is not necessary to go outside of this firm for the most interesting vaudeville topics of the day.

SUNDAY "A WOMAN OF MYSTERY" HERE

A PLAY TO SUIT THE WELL-BALANCED MIND

A SARAH BERNHARDT PLAY

This Masterpiece Proves That Truth Is Not Stranger Than Fiction.

In the nature of human beings, there are many sides. The serene, the sublime, the ridiculous, and a mad that leans toward any of these to an abnormal degree is not well balanced; as too much sadness brings on chronic melancholia, while too much jollity makes sacred things appear to the too joyous mind in a light that is incongruous to the real truth of religion. A mind well balanced enjoys a picture of life that portrays all sides of human nature in its variations as they occur in our daily lives.

That truth is stranger than fiction is not true, to the author who understands humanity, there is no fiction, because he writes of human nature as he sees it although the incidents may be drawn from his imagination, the emotion portrayed through the incidents are plain truths. Such is Sarah Bernhardt's play "A Woman of Mystery," which Miss Courtenay Morgan will play. This play does not only portray the sad incidents but gives a real picture of humanity going from the sublime to the gayer things in life. At the La Crosse theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening.

CLASSMATES BILL AT THEATRE TONIGHT

In the first act of "Classmates," the play of West Point life in which Robert Edeson will be presented by Henry B. Harris at the La Crosse theatre tonight, Mr. Edeson in the role of Duncan Irving strikes Bert Stafford, a fellow student, with the result that Stafford temporarily loses his eyesight. A great many persons who witnessed the piece during its long run at the Hudson theatre in New York were of the opinion that it would be impossible for a person to become blind through a single blow, and accordingly Mr. Harris called upon an eminent eye specialist to give his opinion upon the possibility of such a contingency. The specialist reported that a blow over the eye was amply sufficient to cause total blindness, if struck with force and at the proper spot.

RE-NAMES "THE LION AND THE MOUSE"

STORY OF "THE LION AND THE MOUSE"

KLEINE'S GREAT PLAY UTILIZES A NEW IDEA

IT CAPTIVATES AUDIENCES

Play is Strong and Will be Remembered With Pleasure by Last Season's Patrons

In "the Lion and the Mouse," which Henry B. Harris will produce here on Monday, Feb. 17, Charles Klein has written a play which is destined to live in the minds of all theatergoers whose privilege it is to see it.

The theme is one never before utilized for stage purposes. It is the power of money in American politics and the possibilities for evil held by unscrupulous hands.

Miss Dorothy Donnelly as Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore of the supreme court, returns from Europe to find her father ruined financially and undergoing imprisonment at the inspiration of the money octopus against which he has rendered unavailing efforts. Her homecoming is naturally one of disappointments and heartbreaks for during her visit to Europe she has met and fallen in love with the son of John Burkett Ryder, the very man who has ruined her father. Jefferson Ryder, who is in turn in love with Shirley Rossmore, accompanies her to her home and asked for her hand in marriage, but when Shirley is informed of the new conditions that exist she refuses and dismisses him and declares her intention to fight his father. Jefferson, however, is also shocked at his father's pernicious means of dishonoring the name of Rossmore and in his sympathy for Shirley decided to help her although he knows it is to defeat his father's plans.

Act II

The second act shows the inner private library of the Ryder mansion on Fifth avenue with fawning senators, chairmen of national political committees and judges kicking their heels in the outer corridors as a suggestion of the atmosphere of money power. All of them are sent gruffly away because John Burkett Ryder, played as last season by Paul Everton, has an appointment with Sarah Green, author of "The Octopus," a book which she has written and whose central character is John Burkett Ryder, under another name, Miss Green, who, of course, is Shirley Rossmore, enters and there follows a remarkably stimulating encounter between her and Ryder. Delighted with her frankness and cleverness he asks her to write his autobiography and puts her in possession of secret documents from which to get the data. After being one of the members of his household for a considerable length of time, the master subjugation to her cleverness and wit is so complete, that he asks her to marry his son in order to keep him out of the clutches of the daughter of the hated Rossmore. Her keen sense of womanhood and her love for Jefferson will not allow her to further deceive those who have shown her personal kindness whereupon she admits her identity as being the real Miss Rossmore.

The Climax

Outwitted and cheated in his fondness hopes Ryder in a fit of exasperation, orders her from his house, whereupon the son Jefferson interferes telling his father his deter-

SEE MILLER THE HANDCUFF KING

Miller, the handcuff king, who appears in conjunction with the famous Kennedy players at the La Crosse theatre all next week beginning Tuesday, is considered by press and public to be the greatest of all living handcuff kings. The only handcuff man who escaped from Kings county penitentiary, New York. During his stay in this city he will give a public exhibition at the city jail. Don't miss this great performance. He will astonish, amuse and mystify you. Miller boasts that there is not a pair of regulation handcuffs, shackles, Oregon boots that he cannot take off. Manager Lewis will pay $25 to any one who will bring any of the above articles that he cannot take off.

mination to leave with her and become her husband. Here Shirley's pride interferes and she denounces Ryder, Sr., assuring him that she would not allow herself to fall so low as to marry the son of a man who tramples all good under his golden heel and who refuses to lift his hand to save her father from unmerited disgrace. This scene has been unanimously conceded by all critics to be one of the very best introduced in a drama of recent years. Even the success of the play which everyone is familiar with, is reason sufficient that all classes of theatergoers should not fail to see it.

New York Cast

Mr. Henry B. Harris' name is proof that the production will be given here in every way first class and exactly as seen in New York, with a cast accurately the same as seen to success here last season, entirely capable of presenting in the very best way the several characterizations. The seat sale opened this morning and still selling.

THE AUDITORIUM INJUNCTION WAS FLAYED BY MAYOR

gone too easy before, was doubly embarrassing now. After many consultations with the controller, it was thought we might be able to provide enough funds to secure the enclosure of a plain substantial building, or about $20,000, and, if necessary, I am willing to assume all responsibility for suggesting that the committee go ahead with the plans. It is proper to state here that there was one condition constantly insisted upon by the committee, with the architect, and this was that the foundation, walls and roof, should be so substantially constructed as to be safe beyond question, and subject to the approval of the city engineer, which condition was complied with. Ample exits were also to be and were provided, both from the main floor and the galleries.

"It is true that it was desired to so far complete this building this year that it would enable the city to provide for its guests at the time of the Saengerfest. That those comprising this gathering were to be the city's guests cannot be denied, for the representatives of a large portion of our citizens invited them, by request of the Board of Trade.

City's Reputation at Stake.
"The municipal authorities were not responsible for the situation, but we did feel that there was an obligation resting upon the city and it was our duty to assist by all means in our power to meet it. And I am free to say, that if the recent action of the two gentlemen should result in the Saengerfest going to some other city, it would have been better for the good name and fame of La Crosse, under all the conditions, to have erected the proposed building at a cost of twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars, if every part of it had been thrown to the winds before snow flies next winter.

First "Hunch" of Trouble.
"About the time the plans had approached completion, I received indirectly, the first intimation that there might be legal obstacles thrown in the way, and this came, strange as it may seem, with apparent satisfaction and a contemptible insinuation, from one of the military gentlemen who had petitioned the council to construct an armory and auditorium. Soon thereafter an attorney was in the city hall, examining the proceedings of the council upon the subject. Learning subsequently, as he represented and meeting the latter gentleman in the National bank one day I asked him if he was intending to block the construction of the building. He indulged in various criticisms, and I endeavored to explain some of the difficulties under which we labored, but what our intentions were. He finally asked me if I was willing to have the plans passed upon by some outside party, as to the stability of the work. In the presence of two other gentlemen I agreed to obtain a set of the plans for him, confidentially, for such purpose, but it was my intention to furnish with the plans a statement of the exact situation and what we intended and why we were doing just as we did. It seemed simple justice to the architect and the committee that any one passing upon the plans should have the facts. The plans were never called for from me. Did the gentleman avail himself of this offer? No. Had he, prior to this, ever been to any member of the committee to explain his dissatisfaction, or to ascertain what reasons they may have for doing as they did? No. Would not this have been the natural and proper course for any one deeply interested in the welfare of the city, anxious to promote its interests and equally anxious to prevent mistakes?

"Without going into details I may say the plans were obtained in another way and, without any explanation of the conditions from the committee, submitted to a construction company whose criticisms were read to me December 28, with explanation that the plans had been obtained without embarrassing me. Not being furnished with a copy of same, I do not wish to quote from memory but think quite a number of their objections appear, in substance, in the complaint over the signature of the complainants.

Motives Impugned.
"The complaints submitted to the court, upon which action is being held, are twelve in number and cover eight or nine pages. Such an array of arguments or reasons ought to be convincing, at least as to motives, but a week has passed and I have yet to meet or hear of an individual, in this city, who accepts unreservedly any or all of those complaints as the actual reason for securing the injunction.

"I will now refer briefly to a few of the more important complaints. One of the exceptions taken to the building is stated as follows: "Is incomplete even for the temporary housing of the Saengerfest, in that no provision is made for seating, lighting, plumbing or heating." If these gentlemen had taken interest enough to have made inquiry of the committee they would have been informed of the fact that special arrangements had been made with the Saengerfest committee for the erection of a temporary stage and providing seats, without expense to the city, and that the payment of $2,500 in June would have amply provided for the lighting and plumbing, with probably something of a margin.

A Hot One.
"As to want of facilities for heating during the Saengerfest, inasmuch as it is to be held during the freezing weather in July (2 to 26), we must plead guilty, and the lack of foresight on part of the council's committee in this respect is admitted, without apologies or any hostility to the coal business of one of the complainants.

"It is further stated in the complaint, all of which these two gentlemen make oath they have read and know to be true of their own knowledge, "That for the purpose of misleading the public, the plans and specifications have been made with reference to keeping down cost, at the expense of appearance, durability, safety and cost of maintenance." This assertion of misleading the public, is such a gross misrepresentation of the aim and effort of a committee of gentlemen trying to solve a difficult problem, that comment "in kind" would be justified, but, having already explained, as I have previously done to one of the gentlemen, that our limited resources prevented our doing just as we would have preferred, and that the matter of durability and safety were kept paramount in all our deliberations, I leave the public to judge.

Regarding the Aesthetic.
"In regard to the 'appearance of cheapness and unattractiveness,' mentioned, how did it happen that those two wealthy gentlemen, who have taken such a sudden interest in this matter and who quoted so freely from the records, overlooked an invitation which was plain enough to be easily understood by men of their means. It is even quoted in their complaint, from the proceedings of the council, and reads: 'Resolved further, that said plans and specifications may be modified by the auditorium committee and board of public works when it appears for the best interests of the city so to do, provided that no expense exceeding the estimate shall be incurred.' This not only gave authority to remedy defects, if such were found, but afforded a grand opportunity for them to have come forward, and I am sure the committee would have gladly redeemed the building of its 'unattractiveness' to the full extent of all the aid they were disposed to render. 'Cost of maintenance,' it is true, is a feature which should receive most careful consideration and, having in mind the experience of the Public Library and another public institution, (with probably another, still in embryo), was so carefully considered that I am warranted in saying 'Rum-mage Sales' would not have been necessary, even if the application for rental of the auditorium part by the season, received prior to the injunction, had not proved satisfactory.

Somewhat Conflicting.
"Another charge in the complaint is that, 'certain material secured from the old building is to be used' which has been used in said building for a generation and subjected to such usage as public schools usually receive.' On the same page, in again referring to the contemplated use of that old building, such a proceeding and its results are portrayed, in words calculated to cause the public to hold up its hands in dismay, as follows: 'The extravagant action of the defendant in tearing down and demolishing said building will result in great damage to these plaintiffs,' etc. It seems almost incredible that such would be the result, but these two gentlemen, 'each for himself' makes oath that he has read the above and 'that the same is true of his own knowledge.' I do not wish to be understood as questioning the fact, from what I have seen in the past few years, that both of these gentlemen ought to be good authorities on the extravagance of tearing down and demolishing. It is merely the consistency of the two complaints, in juxtaposition.

A Blow at Saengerfest
"Another charge in the pamphlet is, 'that said auditorium building is to be constructed for the sole purpose of furnishing a hall, or place of meeting for the Saengerfest.' And yet in an authorized statement, evidently prepared before the papers were served and certainly published before comment had been made, Mr. Hixon says, 'I was specially to have understood that no hostility to the Saengerfest on part of either Mr. Carrill or myself had any part in prompting our action.' The first statement he makes oath as true of his own knowledge. The last is not sworn to. It is difficult to reconcile the two.

"The authorized statement contains the following respecting the proposed building: 'Most unattractive in appearance, which instead of commanding pride on the part of our citizens, will call for apologies.' 'Pride and apologies' in this connection suggests another semi-public building, the La Crosse theater, which stood for eighteen years without a single redeeming feature, but served a good purpose. During all that time it did not appear to shock the pride of these super-sensitive citizens to an alarming extent, or sufficiently to cause any move for its removal outside, although one of these gentlemen, at least, was a prominent stockholder.

One Did Not Care
"In this statement he also says: 'It seems to us that there is a case where lack of individual responsibility has led to ill-considered action,' and doubts, 'if there are a dozen people among those who take any interest in the matter at all, who would be in favor of carrying out this hastily conceived and executed project,' after full knowledge of costs and results. Ignoring this slur upon the members of the committee, it seems strange that, entertaining such ideas of individual responsibility, he should have sought the cooperation of others in securing this injunction and, failing in the effort, should finally seek and prevail on a personal friend to join in the complaint. It may be injustice to the latter gentleman, but I have yet to meet an individual who believes that he personally really cared whether this auditorium was or was not built.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Plain Facts About the Hair

It is the duty of every one who is interested in hair preservation to learn enough about the subject to tell whether an advertisement for a hair remedy is reasonable or unreasonable. In this connection, the United States Post Office department has begun a much needed campaign against false and misleading statements in advertisements in general. While this work is highly commendable and should be greatly extended, still at the same time it tends to paternalism rather than to personal reliance. IF YOU know that the claims for a hair remedy are unreasonable and untrue, that knowledge will save you money and prevent disappointment.

The trouble lies in the fact that certain over ambitious Proprietors employ advertising writers who do not know the composition of the remedies they write about, and even if they did, they are not expected to know the therapeutic action of the various ingredients. Two very familiar and oft repeated statements are, that the hair must be watered and fed just like a plant, and that the color of the hair, once destroyed, can be restored, by natural process. While both of these statements are false in every particular, it requires some little knowledge of the hair follicle to understand why the statements are false.

The hair follicle is a pear shaped sack in the scalp that holds the hair root. At the bottom of the hair follicle, and extending up into it for a short distance, is a nipple shaped projection that remains in the scalp when a hair root is forcibly pulled out. This projection is the hair papilla from which the hair "root" grows. The continuous addition to the bottom of the hair root, forces the hair proper out through the scalp.

The hair papilla is surrounded by the hair root, which thus takes a bulbous form. Above the hair root or bulb—which occupies about three-fourths of the entire follicle—is the neck of the hair follicle, below which the most penetrating fluids known to Medical Science can not penetrate. Therefore, the story of feeding the starved and impoverished hair roots with an external application is all a myth.

The short portion of the hair follicle above its neck opens somewhat like a funnel and is filled with the outer scalp skin. Opening into this outer portion are the highly important oil or sebaceous glands, which, from their location, are most exposed to disease. When these oil glands become infected with a certain microbic growth (the cause of dandruff) there is hair disease and finally hair death. Fortunately this outer portion of the hair follicle can be treated by carefully rubbing into the scalp a suitable remedy. What remedy should be used? Manifestly one that will destroy the growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is the first remedy that was prepared for the particular purpose of destroying this invisible vegetable growth. In fact, it is called the "ORIGINAL" remedy that kills the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide was not made until after Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your Doctor about him) discovered that dandruff is a highly contagious disease caused by a microbe. The almost marvelous success of Newbro's Herpicide has caused advertising writers to claim germicidal properties for other hair remedies, many of which were on the market years before Prof. Unna's discovery. Do you think that this new claim for old remedies is a reasonable one? Remember, that the hair gets its life, color, and strength direct from the blood and that good blood deep breathing, and sun-light favor hair development. Out-door exercise, to insure free circulation in the scalp, also scalp massaging for the same purpose, are very helpful. Worry, indigestion, and sedentary habits oppose hair growth, while the dandruff germ will actually destroy the hair, unless it is eradicated and kept out of the scalp with Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide is delightfully cooling and refreshing to the scalp, and almost marvelous results sometimes follow its continued use. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

MAKES SKI RECORD AT DULUTH MEET

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 15.—John Evanson of Duluth broke the American ski-jumping record at the national tournament here, covering 116 feet. Ole Mangseth of Erd Wing, Minn., was the previous record-holder, his record being 114 feet.

Outside of the shattering of the record the most remarkable feat was a jump of sixty-two feet made by Carl Toleen of Ishpeming, Mich. He is only 11 years old, and his performance drew the 10,000 spectators wild. He shot down the great hill like a meteor, went into the air with more than the grace of a professional but lacked the weight to carry him up to or beyond the record.

There were more than 100 professionals in the competition.

The great Guadalupe artesian well at Guadalupe, Mex., which used to spout 100 feet high, only spouts half that now.

KITTY BLACK.

A fluffy ball is Kitty Black,
As she lies here in my lap;
All curled up in the prettiest way,
Enjoying her morning nap.

A spinning top is Kitty Black,
When she goes round and round,
In quite a dizzy manner
For the tail that is never found.

A playfellow is Kitty Black,
Spilling for frolic and fun;
Ready to come at the children's call,
From morn till set of sun.

An acrobat is Kitty Black,
As she climbs and tils and swings,
Flying so swiftly from point to point,
Almost as if she had wings.

A staid old maid is Kitty Black,
Keeping so prim and demure;
As though no string, or top, or boy,
Had power to her allure.

A tiger fierce is Kitty Black,
When she gives a cruel spring,
And the robin but now singing,
She brings a poor, dead thing.

Now how many kitties have we,
Can you tell me, bright-eyed son?
Are there half a dozen really,
Or is it only one?

—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

A CHAT WITH THE EDITOR.

My Dear Juniors:

I suppose some of you are wondering why I haven't said anything lately about the name for our club. No, indeed, I have not forgotten about it, but I have a very good reason for not mentioning it last week and now I am going to let you into the secret. For quite a few weeks past I have had an idea in my head about forming a "Sunshine Club" out of all our little members, and now I am going to tell you all about it, and next week in your letters I want you all to write and tell me what you think about it.

I wonder if all my Juniors know what the "Sunshine" work is? Some of you may, and some of you possibly have never heard of it. I feel that it would be of great interest to my Juniors if they could know still more about this good work. It is a very fine thing to have a Junior page, to be able to write back and forth and write stories, etc., at the same time we are really doing these things for ourselves and the members of the club. Now this is the thought I wish to bring to your minds—that we might each week be doing something to help others. And a club of people, even if it is little people, can do, oh, so many, many things to make folks happy. The name of the club that I am telling you about is the "Sunshine Club" and it is a very big organization, with branches all over the country. The members are all "Sunshiners" and that means with happy, sunny faces and loving dispositions, and on the look out all the time to do a kind action, or say a loving word and in many cases if we find out anyone that needs help, to report it to headquarters and we will see what can be done about it.

I suppose all my Juniors know that there are many little children who from one cause or another have a hard time and don't have as many pretty things to play with as they would like. Sickness comes to so many homes and the winters are so long and cold that where there are a lot to provide for, it just takes all the money to get enough to eat and wear. Then there are some people who have been sick for years, some who never can get up when morning comes, and who wonder how they are going to pass the long nights and weeks and days. These we call "shut-ins" and the "Sunshiners" pay special attention to these and to people who can't enjoy things as well as they can. I hope every single day, my Juniors take time to think what a blessed thing it is to be WELL and to be able to go sliding and bobbing and playing with your little friends.

There are a great many things to be thought of in our daily life beside just what WE like, and what OUR chance for a good time is, and who tries to make it pleasant for US. And this is what the principal idea of the "International Sunshine Work" is—TRYING EACH DAY TO MAKE SOME ONE ELSE HAPPY—whether it be at home or at school.

Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, who lives in New York city, is at the head of this big society and I'm sure she will be most delighted if we should have a branch of the "Sunshine" work here in La Crosse. Now how would you like to be "The Tribune Sunshine Club"? I want to hear from all of you in regard to it, don't be afraid to ask questions and next time I will tell you more about the society and what they are doing in many places. How did you like my "Storm Story"? Good bye, from your friend,
BERTHA BURTON.

STORY OF A PICNIC

Kind Miss Burton:

As we are to choose our own topic, mine will be "A Picnic to Pettibone Park." One day we all went out for a picnic to Pettibone park. We enjoyed our walk very much. We started about ten o'clock in the morning. We ate our dinner out there. When we crossed the bridge we all enjoyed looking over the bridge into the water but we were soon across and were in Pettibone park. The girls were not tired but ran about for quite a while. Then we took our luncheon and after that we went near the bank of the river. We saw a big steamboat in the distance and we all ran until we got to the boat. We watched it and followed it until it stopped by the bank across the river. Then the girls ran about and most of them were swinging. Then we started for home. It was about half past four. On our way home we all ran ahead so we could stand on the bridge and look at the water. There were a few men catching fish. Well I will close my letter.

Your loving Junior,
HAZEL MARTELL.
Age 11 years.

UP ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Kind Miss Burton:

I will tell you about the first time I went boat riding. I was quite small. We were going to Billing's park for a picnic. It was on Lake Superior. My sister was a year old. I was somewhat afraid when I looked down at the water. James is my brother. He was not afraid at all. That was a nice ride. We took our hammock along and there were swings up there. There were many girls and boys out there. We had lots of fun out there. The boys played ball and when I was tired watching them it was time for dinner.

Mamma took us all around the park. We picked flowers and sang for some people. About three o'clock we had luncheon. Our happy day came to an end and it was time to go home, but one of mamma's friends told mamma to come and stay at her house as she lived in Duluth, not far from the park. So we took the boat home. After supper my brother and mamma's friend's children and I played games. We did not like to go to bed that night. Well as this is all I can think of I will close.
Your loving Junior,
BEATRICE DOLAN.
Age 11 years. 1017 Market St.

CAPTAIN WOODEN WRITES

My Dear Miss Burton:

You said we might write a story again this week. My story is about a picnic in Winona. My mamma and some of the neighbor ladies went and took our dinner with us. We rolled down the hill and had lots of fun and we found so many pretty flowers, we had lots of good things to eat and we stayed till 5 o'clock. We played hide-and-seek and hid behind the trees and we played puss-in-the-corner and made a bed under the trees for our baby. Mamma is going to take us back to Winona so we can have another good time like that. Now, Miss Burton, how will we choose our next captain for the "Blues" or will we vote for them or will you pick out some one. I hope you will hear from more of the Juniors. I am glad our side is ahead.
HAZEL WOODEN.

A LOVELY LETTER

Dear Miss Burton:

As I saw my letters in print I encouraged me to write again. I should like to have our club named "The Tribune Jolly Juniors." My topic this week is going to be "The Beauty of the World." I don't mean pretty flowers, pretty pictures or anything pretty that we put our eyes on. But I mean something that makes the life a comfort, something that makes us feel well and happy wherever we are. That is the sun in life, the sun that streams out from friendly faces and friendly hearts. The kindly smile, the small kindly service we show each other. There is nothing more beautiful than that sunshine that beams out from a kind and friendly person.

I think the Tribune's Jolly Juniors should try to be friendly and kind to everybody. It will make the life light and happy.
Your little friend,
LILLIAN OPSAHL.
1512 Charles street.

(This is something like the sunshine work I am telling you about.)

A LETTER ABOUT "NUTTING"

My Dear Miss Burton:

I was very much pleased to see my name on the Honor Roll so I will write again and try to write every week. This time I will write about when we go nutting. It is very much fun running about in the woods hunting nuts. When we get a lot of nuts together we sit down under a tree and take the shucks off them. A year ago we got four bushels of nuts but last year we did not get any. Sometimes we go walnut picking which is just as much fun. But I don't like to shell the nuts because they get your hands all brown. This is about all I can tell for this time, so I will close.
Your loving Junior,
IDA KOBLITZ.

A TINY LETTER

Kind Miss Burton:

As I see so many little girls joining the club, I thought I might join the "Blues" of which Hazel Wooden is the captain. I am in the second grade. Well I will take up too much room on the Junior page.
Your little friend,
MARJORIE PIERCE.

THIS LETTER CAME LATE LAST WEEK

Dear Miss Burton:

I am a little late this week, but my little sister Emmel and my brother Everett had the grip and I had to help mamma after school. The paper boy did not leave us any paper last Saturday, and so I didn't see the Junior page until a neighbor lady gave me hers. I haven't tried any kind of a recipe, mamma says she will teach me how to make things when school is out, then she will have more time to teach me.

Now Miss Burton, do not trouble yourself to print this letter, as you told us you had lots of things to do the last of the week, but I thought I would write anyway. I am glad my little friends didn't forget me, and I hope they all keep well and don't have the grip. Good-bye.
From your friend,
HAZEL WOODEN.

ABOUT A NICE PICNIC.

My Dear Miss Burton:

You said we might write a story again this week. My story is about a picnic. All my cousins and my aunts went for a picnic last summer and all our family too. We had lots of fun and lots of good things to eat. And we had swings and we had all kinds of fun. My cousin and I both took our dolls. We took our dinner and when it was dinner time we ate under the trees. And we stayed till 5 o'clock and then we went home. And we played hide-and-seek, and drop-the-handkerchief, and rolled down hill and found lots of pretty flowers. We made a bed under the trees for our dollies. My, but we will be glad when summer comes again, so we can have another good time like this one. We had the picnic on the farm. I hope to see my letter in print, so good-bye.
EVA SWARTZ.

(I think Eva and Hazel must have gone to the picnic together. It was nice anyway.)

A VERY NICE LETTER.

Dear Miss Burton:

I have been reading the Junior page since it started, and I thought I would write a letter myself and it would surprise mamma when she sees it in print—that is if it doesn't reach the waste basket. I like to read and we have a nice library in our school. I have read "Dorcas, the Indian Boy," "Cat Tails and Other Tales," "Pussy Willow," "Solam," "Eight Cousins," "Five Little Peppers," and several others, but I liked the last two mentioned best. There are lots of nice hills near our house to coast on. My little brother George aged five years has a pet cat named Tiger, and I have lots of fun coasting. The cat always walks up the hill with us so as to have a ride down again. I am sending a recipe for soft chocolate caramels, which I have tried and is good. I am,
A new member,
MARGARET FARRELL.
La Crescent, Minn.
Aged 10 years.

(I will keep your recipe till next week, Margaret, for you did not send any instructions with it and as it is such a large quantity of everything, I am a little afraid to let the Juniors have it. You write it over for next week and tell us just how you put it together. Are you sure you are right about the amount of chocolate?
B. B.)

AN ORIGINAL STORY.

Dear Miss Burton:

As I did not write last time, I thought I would write now. You told us to write about any subject was a naughty boy and did not hurt we wanted to, so I will write about "THE LOST CHILD." One day a little boy was sent to market. It was a warm day in winter and it looked like snow, so his mother told him to hurry. But he, by played with some boys along the way. Just as he started to go on to market, it began to snow. The boy was thinking what fine fun he would have on his way back wading in the snow, so he did not hurry. It began to snow harder and fall faster and the wind began to blow harder. By and by faint and weak, he struggled on, but by the time he had gone a half a mile he felt faint and weak upon the ground. That night his mother was waiting for him, but he did not come home. They thought he might have wandered into the forest. They searched but could not find him. Now they wonder if the wolves could have eaten him. Now, I hope every one will obey their mother after this.

Your friend,
FRANCES JAMES,
1217 Charles street.
(They surely will, Frances.)

WANTS "THE JUNIOR CLUB."

Dear Miss Burton:

As I have been reading the Junior page so much and see so many of my little friends writing to it, I will write for the first time. I think a nice name for our club would be "The Junior Club." I would like to be on the "Red" side. I will now draw my letter to a close and hope to see it in print.
Your friend,
ALVILDA MOE.

A NEW MEMBER.

Dear Miss Burton:

I am a new member. I go to the First ward school. I want to join the "Blues" of which Margaret Heyerdahl is the captain. Since this is my first letter it will not be a long one. Since I saw all those letters I thought I would write a few lines. I hope to see my letter in print.
Yours sincerely,
PALMA EIDE.

703 State street; age 9 years.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE

Kind Miss Burton:

This is one of my language tasks. My teacher read this story to us and we had to reproduce it:

"The Lion and the Mouse" Once upon a time when a lion was sleeping a little mouse happened to run across his paws. This woke the lion up and he caught the little creature. The little mouse thought the lion would eat him so he begged the lion for his life and the lion let him go.

One day as the lion was walking along he was caught in a net and he thought now his life was near the end. He began to roar so loudly that the little mouse heard his voice and it came to see if it could help the lion. The mouse began to gnaw the net and set him free. So the little mouse had a chance to repay the kindness of the lion.

I will close. Your loving Junior,
EUGENIE RYAN.
Age 12 years. 1017 Market St.

IRENE JOINS TOO.

Dear Miss Burton:

I see so many of my friends are writing letters I thought I would write a letter. I am a new member and want to join the "Blues." I am 10 years old and go to the Second ward school. Since this is the first letter I have written to you, it will be a short letter.

Your little friend,
IRENE EIDE.
703 State street.

ANOTHER TINY LETTER

My Dear Miss Burton:

As I see so many of my friends are writing letters I thought I would write a letter too. I go to school every day. I am in the 2B grade. I am 7 years old. I live at 1339 Rose street. My name is BERNICE CARLIN KINYON.

AN OUT OF TOWN MEMBER

Viroqua, Wis., Feb. 9, 1908.

Dear Miss Burton:

As I see so many girls writing I thought I would write. I should like to join the "Blues."

You said for us to write an original story this week, so I will write upon the subject, "Little Alice." I am going to tell you about a girl who was always saying and doing funny things. Her name was Alice Moor. Alice was four years of age and had a sister who was seven and her name was Grace.

It was in the summer time when it was raining full force that Alice looked out of her window, and what do you suppose she saw, there came her black cat with a little black kitten in her mouth. Alice was so happy she could hardly wait for Tabby (her kitty) to come.

When Tabby cried to come in Grace went to the door. But she didn't know that Alice wouldn't like it. Alice lay on the floor and began to kick; she was very quick tempered anyway. Her mother was lying down upstairs, but was awakened by the racket. She came rushing down the stairs to see what was the matter, but when she saw Alice lying on the floor she knew nothing much had happened for that had happened many times. So she said Grace could go and play the rest of the afternoon but Alice could not step out of the house. Hoping to see this in print soon.

Your loving friend,
LOLA THOMPSON.
Age 11 years.

A SLEIGHING PARTY

Kind Miss Burton:

I will tell you about a sleighing party. It was on a Saturday and all the school boys and girls went. We went to Grand Rapids for a ride. While we were on our way many boys and girls threw snowballs at us. Some of the children jumped off and ran awhile. When we got to Grand Rapids we got off and bought candy and other things. We rode all around and had a fine time all afternoon. Our teacher went with us. Her name was Miss Cullway. When we came home our toes were cold but we had a nice time.

Your loving Junior,
ALBINA DEAN.
Age 12 years. 1017 Market St.

LETTER ABOUT CALIFORNIA.

Dear Miss Burton:

As you have permitted us to write on any subject we choose I will tell you about a visit I took to Chutes Park in California. We saw elephants, porcupines, kangaroos, lions, snakes, monkeys, deer, and owls. And we saw a savage that could walk barefooted on fire hot stones. There was a little train for children to ride on and airships. The airships did not go of themselves but they were attached by ropes and wires to a high pole and machinery was around the pole. They were not real airships but were the shape of airships and sailed in the air just like them. We went down the shoot chute. That is a boat going down a slanting slide of tin and then it splashes into a small lake.

There were some natives from the Philippine Islands who sang "My Old Kentucky Home," and the women wore rings out of pretty colored straws. They went around and put them on the bystanders' fingers and then they held out their hands and said "nicky," which meant a nickel. We also went on the loop-the-loop and there was a theater there and a roller rink. I guess I will draw my letter to a close.

MARGARET O'GARE,
1017 Market street.

AN ORIGINAL STORY.

Kind Miss Burton:

Seeing my first letter in print encourages me to write again.

There was a mistake made last week. I said I wanted to be on the "Blues" and I was put on the "Reds."

I took for my subject THE LIFE OF HARRIET LINDLER. Harriet Lindler and Marie Rover were two very intimate school girls and lived in the same part of the city of St. Paul.

"Mamma," said Harriet, "may I go over to Marie's house? We want to work our examples together."

"Yes, dear, you may go," said her kind mother.

So after Harriet was through with her supper she went over to Marie's home. They had a pleasant time, and got all of their examples.

Harriet was a very kind child and always ready to help people in distress. She had blue eyes, brown hair, and was of medium height; she was then thirteen years old.

Marie on the other hand was dark featured. Although she was kind she was rude at times when excited. It was nearing "Hallowe'en" night and the children at school were planning what mischief they were going to do. Some were going to stuff keyholes with plaster. Oh! I could not begin to name all the things they were going to do.

The days flew by and this night was "Hallowe'en."

There was going to be a party at Katherine Morris' and all the girls were going including Marie and Harriet.

So Harriet went after Marie, but the latter was in a flurry, for she could not find her silk dress which she was going to wear.

"Oh dear! Oh dear!" said Marie crossly. "I will not go unless I can find my dress."

"Oh! you don't need that one, my dear girl, you have lots of other pretty ones," said Harriet kindly.

"But I must or I will look awful and nobody will look at me," said Marie very cross.

"No, you look very nice in your pink cashmere and everybody will admire you and think you are a rosebud," said patient Harriet.

"Well, I suppose I would, so I will wear it just to please you, my darling little girl," said Marie, going up and hugging Harriet who embraced her like a mother does her child.

So they went to the party. On the way they met a crowd of young folks all dressed in sheets.

Marie dodged behind a tree, but Harriet stood her ground.

The make-believe ghosts surrounded Harriet and danced around her for a few minutes and then each made a big bow and then ran away.

"Wasn't you frightened?" said Marie, coming from behind the tree.

"I was a little at first, but I thought that after I didn't run at first I might as well stay," said Harriet airily.

They did not have any more mishaps after that till they got to the party.

They were bobbing apples and having a good time when they heard a loud war whoop and all the children ran outdoors and there they saw about a score of Indians dancing around the yard and the Indians holloed "all join hands," so they joined hands and danced for about fifteen minutes.

When Harriet got home her father was sitting up alone waiting for her. "Well, how was the party," asked Mr. Lindler kindly, looking down upon his daughter with pleasure.

"Alright," said Harriet, "but I had a few adventures." So Harriet told her father all about it, who enjoyed it immensely.

The next day at school the teacher said: "All those that were not out playing mischief on people may stand;" all except those who were at the party stood.

"Those that are standing may not come to school this afternoon."

"Harriet, will you please stay a minute, I would like to speak with you," said the teacher.

"Yes," said Harriet.

So when all the pupils were out of the room the teacher came up to Harriet and said: "I saw you from my window last night how well you stood your ground when the ghosts surrounded you, and I wish to give you a reward." The teacher handed Harriet a gold cross and chain.

"Thank you," said Harriet, "but you didn't need give me this because that was not more than I ought to do."

"But," said the teacher kindly, "I saw another girl with you who dodged behind a tree, please tell me who she was."

"Her name," said Harriet, "is Marie Rover."

"Well," said the teacher, "you are to receive it from the school board."

"Thank the school board for me and tell them I receive it gratefully," said Harriet.

When Harriet got home at noon and told her parents about it they praised her all the more.

"So I see my daughter has tried to do what her father wants her to do," said her father kindly.

"But to tell the truth," said Harriet, "I was rather frightened at first."

Marie and Harriet did not have to go to school, so they got their lessons for Monday.

At the supper table at the Rover's Marie told of Harriet's reward, and said: "My, but I wish I had stood my ground like Harriet did."

"But," said her father, "Harriet did that just to do what she ought to do and you would have done about as well if you would have done it with the heart Harriet did."

Marie's father never missed a day at church unless on account of illness.

His life pleasant during the remainder of his days.

Yours truly,
FRANCES LYONS.

NEW MEMBERS.

Marjorie Pierce (Blues). Alvilda Moe (Reds). Palmer Eide (Reds). Margaret Farrell (Blues). Lola Thomson (Blues). Frances Lyons says she should have been on the "Blues" instead of the "Reds," so she takes her place with the "Blues." So now we have three new blues and one transferred, which makes them 43, and three new reds, which makes them 38.

Present standing:
Blues ..... 43
Reds ..... 38

I will let you know, Juniors, when and how your new captains will be elected, but just at present I want Captain Wooden and Captain Heyerdahl to keep their offices, for I think they are doing very nicely. I am sure we are all proud of our Junior page this week, for it looks nice to see all our names in print, doesn't it? Write early next week.

Yours for success,
B. B.

CHANGES POETRY TO PROSE.

Kind Miss Burton:

I am writing out one of my tasks which I think will be as interesting as a letter. We were given the following poem to change into prose:

A Good Samaritan.
In Regent's Park one cloudless day
An over-driven sheep.

Arrived from long and dusty way,
Throbbing with thirst and hotness lay
A panting woolly heap.

But help is nearer than we know
For hills of every name
Ragged enough to scare the crow,
But with a heart to pity woe,
A quick-eyed urchin came.

A little he knew of field or fold,
Yet knew what ailed; his cap
Was ready up for water cold;
Though rumpled, stained, and very old,

Its rents were small—good-hap!
Shaping the rim and crown he went
Till crown from rim was deep.
The water gushed from pore and rent;

Before he came one-half was spent—
The other saved the sheep.
Transposition.

One very hot and sultry day a man was driving a sheep to Regent's Park. The way was long and dusty and the sheep was dying of heat and thirst.

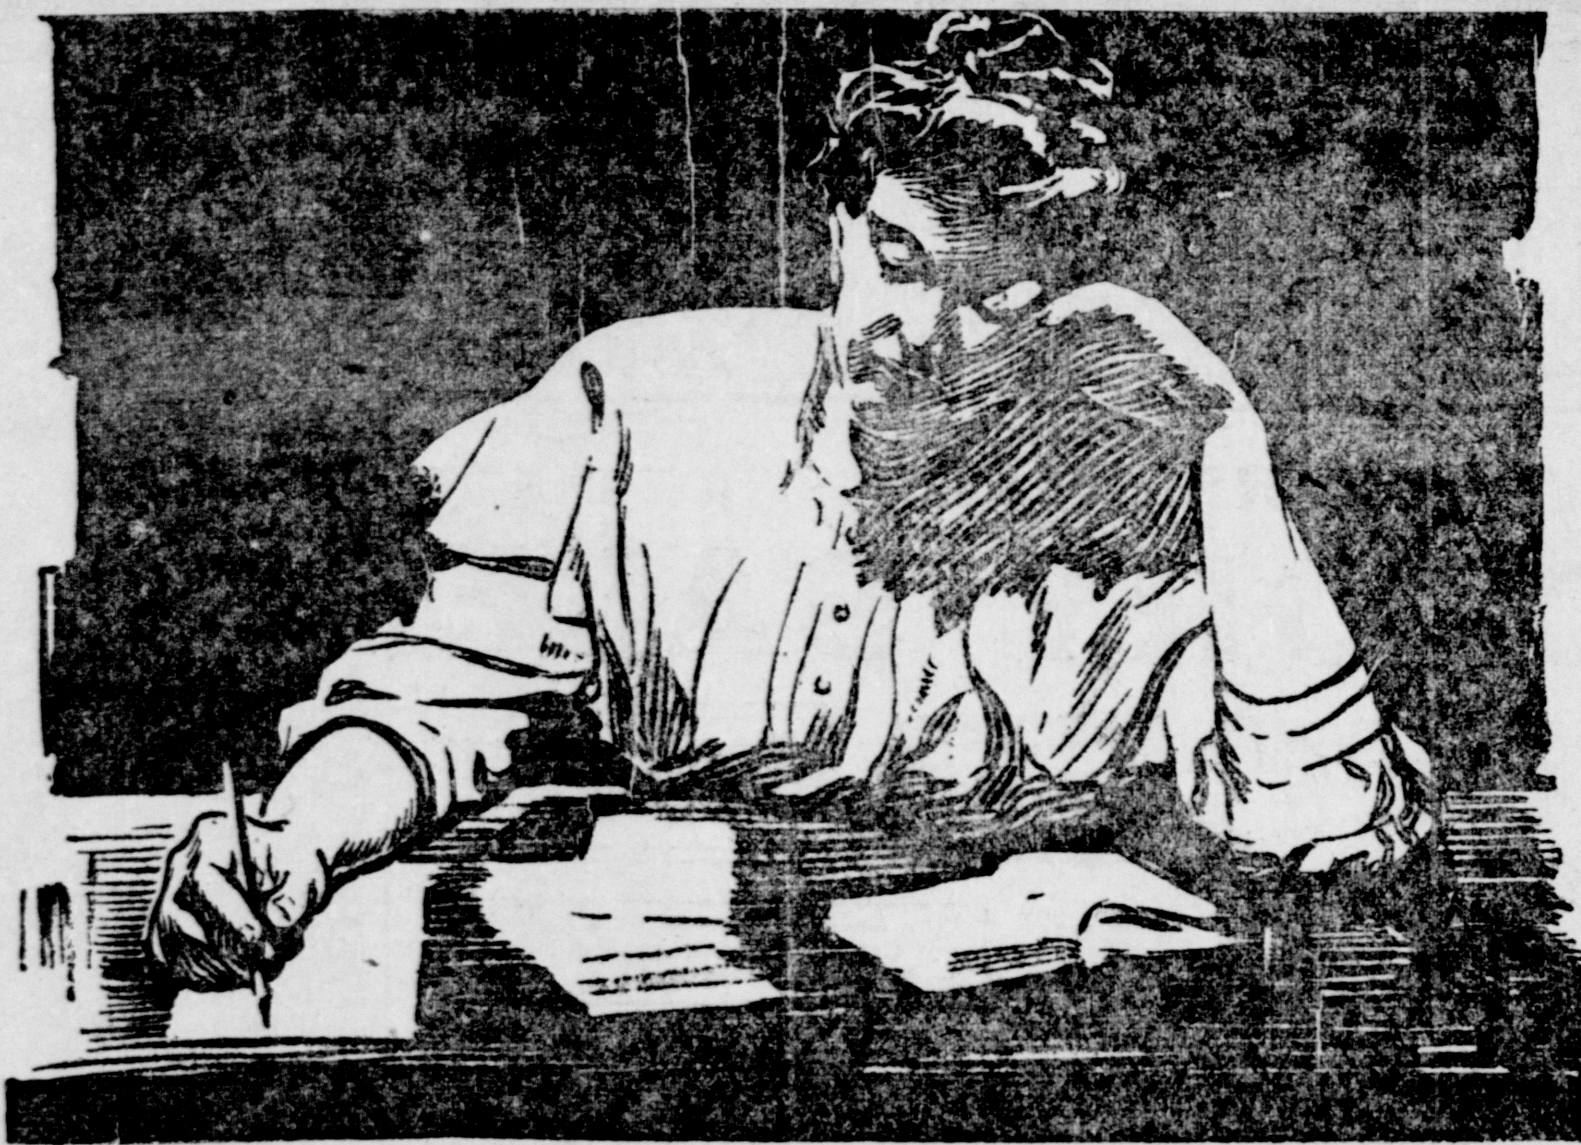

A little boy came along. His clothes were torn and if he were set up in a field he would have been ragged enough to scare a crow. But he was a kind hearted little fellow. He didn't know much about field or fold but he knew what was the matter with the sheep.

He took his cap and shaped it like a cup and filled it with water from a fountain. But fortunately for the sheep there were not many rents in the hat though it was stained and old. Before he came back to the sheep one-half of it was gone but what was left saved the sheep.

Now I will close, I am,
Your little friend,
EMMA RIEBE.
Age 14 years.
1017 Market St.
